

Medical Heating and Cooling Concession

Did you know that you may be eligible for a Medical Heating and Cooling Concession from the South Australian Government if you have a qualifying medical condition that requires frequent use of heating or cooling in the home to prevent your condition from getting worse.

The concession provides additional financial assistance to help people who incur high electricity costs because of their medical need to use air conditioners on a frequent or prolonged basis. The Concession is available annually and usually applied to quarterly power bills. Applicants (or children of applicants) must meet all of the SA Government's eligibility criteria and MUST have an air conditioning unit in their home to be eligible.

Qualifying Medical Conditions for the Medical Heating & Cooling Concession include:

- ✓ Multiple Sclerosis
- ✓ Parkinsons Disease
- ✓ Fibromyalgia
- ✓ Muscular Dystrophy
- ✓ Systemic Lupus Erythematosus (SLE).
- ✓ Motor Neuron Disease
- ✓ Lymphoedema (> Grade 1)
- ✓ Post Polio Syndrome / Poimyelitis
- ✓ Tetraplegia
- ✓ Other conditions specified by a medical specialist
